SUBJECT: Widely Attended Gathering Determination Regarding Attendance of the Space Flight Awareness Recognition Event

On June 4 through June 9, 2007, the JSC Space Flight Awareness (SFA) Program and co-sponsors are hosting a Space Flight Awareness Recognition Event at the International Plaza Hotel in Orlando, Florida, and Kennedy Space Center.

The event will begin in the evening on June 5, 2007, with an honoree reception for the participants. On June 6, 2007, the participants will participate in an honoree awards ceremony and a panel tag up. On June 7, 2007, participants will have a tour of the Kennedy Space Center (KSC). On June 8, 2007, the participants will view the launch of STS-117 and then return to the International Plaza Hotel and return home on June 9, 2007. The co-sponsors of this event who are providing the alcohol, entertainment support, table decorations, and the cost of their employees to attend include: Boeing, Lockheed Martin, Pratt & Whitney, United Space Alliance, and ATK Thiokol.

The SFA Program is a NASA managed motivational program with invited representation from the Office of Space Flight Field Centers, international partner representatives, other NASA Field Centers, and contractors having major responsibilities for human space flight mission success. This Program meets the NASA requirement for contractors to participate in a NASA motivational Program.

The purpose of the SFA Recognition Event is to establish annual SFA Program goals and objectives to ensure every employee involved in human space flight is aware of the importance of their role in promoting safety, quality, and mission success. It is also meant to increase awareness of the Human Space Flight Program accomplishments, milestones, and objectives with a focus on safety and mission success and conduct events and products that motivate and recognize the workforce, and enhance employee morale.

The awardees that will be attending the event are both NASA civil servants and employees and managers from the contractor community, as well as international partner representatives. The event is of direct interest to NASA and serves as a forum for facilitating the widest practicable dissemination of information concerning the Agency and the importance of safety in the Human Space Flight Program and motivating employees to continue to promote such safety programs within their workplace.

It is my determination that it is in the Agency's interest for NASA invitees to attend. Their attendance outweighs any concern that the acceptance of any benefits may, or may appear to improperly influence any NASA employee in the performance of official duties.

Accordingly, JSC invitees are authorized to attend and to accept the services and items that are being provided for by the contractor co-sponsors in conjunction with this event, at no cost.
